About Me

As a passionate fresher in front-end development, I have gained hands-on experience with HTML, CSS, JavaScript, and TypeScript to build responsive websites.

I am also learning React.js to create dynamic user interfaces and have a basic understanding of SQL for database management, Python for backend development, and Figma for UI/UX design. With a strong creative mindset, I focus on designing visually appealing and user-friendly websites. I am excited to apply my skills, grow in a professional environment, and contribute to building engaging web applications.
